CM Condominium Manager, the official publication of the Association of Condominium Managers of Ontario (ACMO), is published quarterly as a medium of communication between the Association and its members and as a forum for fair comment and discussion on all matters of general interest to the condominium community at large. Readers are invited to comment and express opinions on relevant topics. Views and opinions expressed do not necessarily reflect the policies of the Association and are strictly those of the writers. Publication of advertisements, contributed articles and letters does not imply endorsement of the opinions expressed therein, and ACMO, CM Condominium Manager, its publishers and staff do not accept any responsibility for them. All material submitted and published remains the property of the publishers and/or the Association of Condominium Managers of Ontario. No reproduction of this publication in whole or in part is permitted without the written authorization of the publishers.

Information and opinions printed in CM Condominium Manager are brief summaries of complex topics provided by the publisher and authors without any liability whatsoever. Readers should obtain expert advice in specific situations.

CM Condominium Manager is a controlled circulation professional trade publication distributed free of charge to members of ACMO.

Message from the Executive Director

New Video Series Will Engage You

BY AMANDA CURTIS, CAE

IN JUNE, we presented a listing of six events to be held over the summer months and at the time of writing only the September 10th evening cruise is still to be held. Summer is all too short, yet the momentum of fall and a new program year is also exciting.

In this issue, ACMO president Catherine Murdock has summarized board activity in a number of important areas. Other projects currently before ACMO focus on communication.

A soon to be released series of four videos will include the opportunity for CM readers to provide their feedback on key elements contained in Bill 106 (Protecting Condominium Owners Act, 2015). Filmed to cover the four main pillars of the Act and consultative process, ACMO leaders will present early positioning on the good, the bad and the ugly! We will be seeking your support on where our industry stands on recommendations that will greatly improve professional condominium management and consumer protection, as well as those on which compliance and execution will be challenging.

At the committee level, our Communications & Marketing Committee has adopted immediate and short-term plans to facilitate the sharing of information and new services with members through a variety of different media. The Awards Committee provided an online platform for you to applaud the achievements of fellow RCM members, industry leaders and Associates. Some excellent submissions were received and following two meetings of the independent selection committee, awards will be presented on October 23rd.

Lastly, there is communication in person. The 19th Annual Condo Conference 2015, offered by ACMO and CCI Toronto & Area Chapter, will be held for the first time in the North Building of the Toronto Congress Centre. The expanded trade-show floor was close to sold out at the beginning of August, and expo passes will increase exposure to the exceptional professional services and products available to the condominium industry. Twenty educational sessions have been planned with special attention to manager expectations and hands-on offerings for boards of directors. A networking dinner on Friday evening is a new addition to this annual program.

We look forward to seeing many of you on November 13th & 14th at Condo Conference #Leadingtheway. Until then, your questions and input are always welcome at 905-826-6890 / 1-800-265-3263.
